"We entered the awards because we were asked to"

Quality Safety

It's that time of the year when you as a business owner or manager should be taking a good look at your business and thinking about celebrating its innovation, excellence and achievement, by entering the 2008 Wanganui Business Awards.

Quality Safety were advised to enter the 2007 Awards, and walked away not only as winners of the Horsley Christie Primary Industry, Manufacturing & Exporting Excellence Award, but also as ABN AMRO Craigs Supreme Business of the Year for 2007.

"We entered the awards because we were asked to" says general manager Guy Collins. "We thought it would be good exposure for our business, and we are all so proud of what we do, so we decided to give it a go."

"Quality Safety is a family business with enormous potential," says Guy. "The entry process wasn't too difficult, and we found it very helpful working through the questions, as it helped us notice our deficiencies. We also enjoyed the visit from the judges," Guy adds.

"We loved the evening, and by winning the awards we did, we received recognition for the business's hard work."

"Entering the awards was a very exciting experience for Quality Safety, and I would thoroughly recommend other businesses to give it a go," he says.

Entries for the 2008 ABN AMRO Craigs Wanganui Business Awards open June 5th with all entries remaining confidential to the independent judges appointed through Massey University. As for last year's competition, all entrants will receive personalised feedback from the judges, plus acknowledgement at the Award Ceremony to be held November 1st.
